

Silk Road Map

Directions: On the blank map you've been given, you will be focusing on the region's geography. You will view physical maps in an atlas or on the National Geographic's Web site (<http://www.nationalgeographic.com/studentatlas/>) to help you. Using colored pencils, crayons, or markers, you will fill in areas on your maps with symbols that represent that area's geography (i.e., triangles for mountains, camels for desert areas, etc.). Finally, you will create a key on the bottom of your map explaining what the symbols mean.

Make a rough draft of your key in the box below.
